The Western James Bay Telecom Network (WJBTN) is a 100% First Nations -owned and operated not-for-profit corporation established by the Mushkegowuk Tribal Council in 2008 to improve access to Internet services for Attawapiskat, Kashechewan and Fort Albany First Nations.

The Western James Bay Telecom Network is seeking proposals from individual regional authors to write a manuscript on the history of the Western James Bay Telecom Network and the overall history of telecommunications along the Western James Bay coast. WJBTN will use the manuscript as a centerpiece of our future public relations strategy.

The selected author will be given access to all historical materials, contact information, and resources necessary to write the story of our Network. The author will be advised by a small working committee established by WJBTN. As some travel will be required, a travel budget will be assigned to the successful author.

The proposal should include remuneration expected and a detailed workplan the author - applicant intends to follow to meet the December 16, 2022, deadline. The proposal should also include a list of existing, published work and, if applicable, links to online works.

Please send your proposals by email or letter mail by November 29th, 2021, at 5:00 PM to:
